10:45-12:00

Addressing new threats to Aviation: Is there a path for a safer future?

The aviation industry is at a crossroads as it confronts a new wave of threats that challenge its resilience and security standards. From the rapidly evolving attack scenarios exploiting the aviation critical infrastructure vulnerabilities to challenges posed by the increase of cyber-attacks and misuse of unmanned aircraft systems, new risks demand a proactive and coordinated response.

Step into a dynamic discussion session where the leading aviation security and cybersecurity experts meet in an engaging and interactive format to answer the audience's direct questions to uncover if—and how—the aviation community can chart a path to a safer tomorrow.

Moderator

Mr. Sylvain Lefoyer, Deputy Director, Aviation Security and Facilitation, International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO)

Panellists

Mr. Chris Dalton, Chief, Airspace Management and Optimization Section, International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO)

Ms. Magdalena Jaworska-Mačkowiak, Chief Executive Officer, Polish Air Navigation Services Agency, Poland

Mr. Patrick Mana, Cyber-security Program Manager and EATM-CERT Manager, EUROCONTROL

Mr. Billy Shallow, Director, Innovation and Technology, Airports Council International (ACI) World

Mr. John Velho, Executive Director, International Aviation, Transport Canada

Session Description

09:00-10:15

Civil military coordination: collaboration and innovation for secure operations

As conflicts become increasingly widespread across the globe, this session will delve into the critical importance of fostering collaboration and coordination among civil aviation stakeholders. The discussion will focus on how cooperative efforts between civilian and military authorities are essential to maintaining safe and secure aviation operations in the face of escalating challenges.

The panel will also address the heightened risks to civil aviation posed by flights operating over or near conflict zones, particularly during times of uncertainty and instability. Emphasis will be placed on identifying gaps and exploring practical strategies to mitigate these risks. Through expert insights, this session aims to advance a shared understanding of best practices to enhance operational safety and resilience in the aviation sector.

Moderator

Mr. John Velho, Executive Director, International Aviation, Transport Canada

Panellists

Eng. Nasser Al-jassasi, Director of AVSEC & FAL Department, Civil Aviation Authority, Oman

Mr. Chris Dalton, Chief, Airspace Management and Optimization Section, International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO)

Mr. Firat Koyuncu, Security Risk Assessment Supervisor, Turkish Airlines

Ms. Safae Raddaf, Head of Security and Facilitation Department, Directorate of Civil Aeronautics, General Directorate of Civil Aviation, Morocco

Mr. Russell Reil, Conflict Zone Program Manager, Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), United States

10:45-12:00

Cybersecurity and Digital Transformation of ATM Systems

The ATM system is more vulnerable to cyber-attacks than before, due to increases in the attack surface resulting from the system's inherent complexity and heterogeneity, combined with the integration of new systems, networks, and services. The panel will discuss emergent threats such as GPS spoofing and how a response system could be established for non-traditional attacks based on technological advancements.

Moderator

Mr. Bogdan Donciu, Director, Regional Directorate Bucharest, Romanian Air Traffic Services Administration, Romania

Panellists

Mr. Hamed Said Al Balushi, Manager – IT Network and Security, Oman Air

Mr. Kee Vin HO, Director for the Cybersecurity and Data Governance Division, Civil Aviation Authority, Singapore

Ms. Luci Holemans, Air Traffic Organization Cybersecurity Manager, Federal Aviation Administration, United States

Mr. Mateusz Zelek, Deputy CTO for Development, Polish Air Navigation Services Agency (PANS), Poland

| 09:00-10:15 | Beyond the Breach: Building Robust Security and Emergency Response Frameworks for Airports This 1.5 hour situational and scenario-based workshop aims to educate aviation security professionals with insights and guidance on how to manage security challenges when emergencies and crises hit through a specific airport-based scenario. Participants will focus on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • crisis management techniques looking at threat assessment and real-time decision-making along with command-and-control structures during security incidents. • business continuity challenges of maintaining essential airport operations during security events. • emergency responses to security events to focus on the practical aspects of rapid deployment procedures and use of limited resources during security incidents. It's important to address cybersecurity incidents and their evolving threats facing airport operators and their physical infrastructure. Participants will also develop strategies for preventing, detecting, responding to, and recovery efforts after a possible cyber security attack. Facilitators Mr. Billy Shallow, Director, Innovation and Technology, Airports Council International (ACI) World Mr. Nicholas Ratledge, Senior Manager Security, Safety and Operations, Airports Council International (ACI) World |

10:45-12:00 Technical Innovations and Human Factors

Technological advances are having, and will continue to have, a major impact on the delivery of aviation security across the industry. The panellists will share their experiences and ideas on the potential benefits and challenges this will bring, including for human factors. They will discuss how automation may affect the role of security personnel in the future, and its limitations; the potential impacts of technology, positive and negative, on human performance; and how screening processes, training, and working environments can be adapted, or may need to be adapted, accordingly.

Empowering Youth: Balancing Gender in Security in Aviation

The future of aviation security requires innovative ideas and perspectives, and today's youth are particularly well-suited to contribute to this endeavor. Empowering youth will play a crucial role in balancing gender representation within the industry, closing the gender gap in aviation security.

This session will explore practical ways to address gender discrimination by emphasizing the role of young people in civil aviation security. Attendees will discuss the importance of gender balance, and hear about both the challenges and opportunities that youth face, enriched by their success stories and expert perspectives. Additionally, this session will inspire attendees to actively participate in creating an inclusive and balanced future in aviation security.

The Civil Aviation Authority works in harmony to achieve its vision in line with international regulations in the civil aviation sector, taking into account the precision required to address all the changes facing the region. The Authority continuously strives for leadership in the sector at both regional and international levels. The ongoing achievements of this sector are a testament to the efforts made by the Authority since its establishment as an independent entity responsible for regulating civil aviation affairs, which aligns with the scale of investments aimed at developing the infrastructure of the aviation sector in the Sultanate of Oman. This has resulted in a significant expansion in the passenger market over the past years, with a notable increase in the numbers related to flights, transit aircraft, and annual revenue rates. Furthermore, the expansion of achievements and initiatives undertaken by the Authority extends to include meteorology, air navigation, and all matters related to air transport, with a special focus on human resources aimed at improving efficiency and productivity to achieve the highest levels of excellence.

Vision

Sustainable aviation with exceptional capabilities.

Message

Regulating civil aviation sectors and developing meteorological and air navigation services through human capital development.

Values

- Integrity
- Innovation
- Effective communication
- Partnership

Strategic Goals

- Enhancing the level of legislation for safety, security, and environmental protection in aviation.
- Continuous improvement of services.

- Increasing connectivity between Oman and countries worldwide.
- Boosting air transport activities to enhance financial sustainability.
- Improving the efficiency of systems, procedures, and institutional performance.
- Digitizing systems and developing technological solutions.
- Training and empowering human capital.
